5th Day Ayutthaya and Bangkok

Breakfast on board. Today you visit Ayutthaya, an unusual destination for the Eastern & Oriental Express, exclusively added for this charter. Just 80 kilometres (50 miles) north of Bangkok is the old capital of Ayutthaya (or Ayuthaya, or even Ayodhya – no matter how you spell it, it is pronounced ah-you-tah-ya). The city became Thailand's capital in the mid-14th century and remained so until the late 18th century. About the time the Americans were tossing tea into Boston harbour, the Burmese attacked and sacked Ayutthaya. In 1767, the city was destroyed by the Burmese army, resulting in the collapse of the kingdom. The ruins of the old city are preserved in the Ayutthaya historical park, now a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The ruins, characterized by the prang (reliquary towers) and gigantic monasteries, give an idea of the city's past splendour. Journey continues towards Bangkok, where you will go on a 1-hour trip through Chinatown. Dinner will be served back on board. (BD)
